WELCOME

The Marine had a terrific start to the year with many sell-out shows, and a very successful launch of live screenings and the Lyme Regis Comedy Club. It's a great monthly gig, with four hilarious comedians and a brilliant atmosphere.

April starts with Lyme Regis Children's Week, five days in the Easter Holidays jostling with fun activities - there's a programme of over thirty events. This is our first collaborative effort with the town's cultural organisations including The Hub, B-Sharp, The Town Mill, RNLI, Lyme Regis Museum, Lyme Regis Skatepark, and Serendip Bookshop. As a community venue, opening our doors to children and their families is central to our values. We have worked hard to ensure there are plenty of free and low cost events to enjoy. Each day there will be a pop-up cafe from 10 A.M. in the Marine, where you can relax close to the action with homemade cakes, healthy lunches, and fresh coffee - with colouring in available for children.

We are delighted to announce the launch of Marine Young Company, which is in partnership with Exeter Northcott Theatre. The MYC is a ten week course starting in April for 40 talented young people to make thought provoking theatre together in a professional setting. Huge thanks to two of our trustees, who have been the driving force behind it - Content Consultant Nicola Curtis and David Harraway, Production Director at Bristol Old Vic.

Lastly, you may have seen the press coverage announcing our new patron - Ian Gillan, Deep Purple's frontman, who lives in Lyme. We are truly grateful for his support and we share his passion to keep grassroots arts venues vibrant.

Gabby Rabbitts

Director of the Marine
