

The background of the poster is a photograph of a coastal scene. On the left, a textured, grey stone wall of a building is visible, with a dark roofline extending from it. The sky is a deep blue with wispy white clouds. In the distance, a calm sea meets a hazy horizon under a soft, golden light, suggesting either dawn or dusk. The overall mood is serene and scenic.

WELCOME

We wrapped-up 2018 on a high with the announcement of a live performance from Sir Ian McKellen: a fundraiser for the theatre that sold out in three hours.

In January we continue our special film and talk events. There's a screening of The Last Witness, starring Michael Gambon, followed by a Q&A with Director Piotr Szkopiak and Producer Carol Harding.

In the 1930s the Marine was a cinema, so providing a home for the Lyme Regis Film Society these past few years has been a great pleasure. It has also encouraged us to launch 'Tuesday Night At The Movies'—a new fortnightly film event. Starting in March, we will show iconic feature films. Thank you to David Johnson and Karol Kulik for creating this exciting new initiative.

We're pleased to welcome back Kathryn Roberts & Sean Lakeman, who won Best Duo at the BBC Radio 2 Folk Awards. Another musical highlight is The South, a band that emerged from the members of English pop group The Beautiful South and play all the original hits.

After long negotiations, we recently announced that all theatre screenings are available to under 18s at the affordable price of £5. We hope this will make it easier for parents to share these cultural events. We're proud to be the only venue in the country with this offer—continuing our mission to make culture accessible to all.
