ACCESSIBILITY

ACCESS

We have level access to our auditorium and downstairs bar. There is an accessible toilet.

Unfortunately our upstairs bar is not accessible by wheelchair.

Our staff and volunteers are happy to help you to enjoy your visit, so please advise us of accessibility requirements by emailing office@marinetheatre.com.

HEARING LOOP

Our hearing loop lets you hear the performance more clearly through your hearing aid. You'll need to switch your hearing aid or CI to the hearing loop setting (also known as the 'T' setting or program). The signal from the hearing loop should cover all seating areas.

CARERS

Carers receive a complimentary ticket when accompanying a ticket holder, but should show an access card with a +1 symbol on it.

To ask for a carer's ticket please email office@marinetheatre.com

SEATING

We can reserve space for wheelchairs and mobility scooters at shows. Seating at standing shows is available for those with access needs; please ask a member of staff.

DOGS

Assistance animals are permitted in the Marine, but pets are not.

COMMUNITY

Over the last five years we've been making the Marine an even more important part of the community by widening participation in arts and culture. We welcome performers from diverse backgrounds, so all members of the community are represented on stage. We relaunched the Marine Youth Theatre with bursaries - an introduction to performing for children. There is something for everyone each month. We make sure there are free and cheap events. Increasingly we've created opportunities to perform or get involved with Community Plays, Sunday Sessions, Senior Creative sessions, volunteering, and Play Reading Groups. But if you just want to sit and watch or look at the view, that's fine too!

VOLUNTEERING

Whether it's ushering, hosting performers, or even DIY, there are lots of ways to support the running of our busy venue. If you have time to spare and would like to get involved, please email friends@marinetheatre.com.

WELCOME

As we enter the Summer months, Lyme Regis inevitably changes as we welcome people from around the country - and world - to this beautiful spot. And we change a bit too, as we welcome Gilroy Theatre back to the Marine for their Rep Season. Rep Theatre is when a resident company performs a number of plays in quick succession. Last year saw the first rep season in decades. We had so many favourable comments, we've decided to extend it from three to five weeks.

There's a great selection again with thrillers, mysteries, and comedy. But on the 250th anniversary of Jane Austen's birth, it's perhaps the staging of her masterpiece Persuasion which is capturing the imagination of everyone down at the theatre. As you may know, a key scene features our beloved Cobb.

I'm particularly pleased to welcome some huge stars as our Comedy Club goes from strength to strength. This quarter, both Taskmaster favourite Mike Wozniak and controversial comedian Reginald D Hunter will perform.

As well as the big names, we nurture our own homegrown talent. I hope you can make it to the Marine Youth Theatre's staging of A Little Mermaid; I'm so proud of them!

MILES HUNT

FRIDAY 26 SEPTEMBER

Surely no introduction is needed, but just in case you need a refresher... The Wonder Stuff are well known for their catchy songs and Hunt's sharp lyrics as the band's sound evolved from guitar pop to include sampling and elements of folk and country. The band scored one UK number 1 single, their release of "Dizzy" with comedian Vic Reeves, 17 top-20 single hits, and three top-10 albums in the UK. His live solo shows are peppered with classic Wonder Stuff tunes and Miles' natural raconteur spirit – expect funny anecdotes a'plenty.

BAD MANNERS

SATURDAY 27 SEPTEMBER

Bad Manners, featuring vocalist Buster Bloodvessel, were at the forefront of the ska revival movement in England in the late '70s. They quickly became the novelty favourites of the fad through their bald, enormous-bodied frontman's silly on-stage antics. In the early '80s, they had many U.K. hits including "Ne-Né Na-Na Na-Nu-Nu," "Lip Up Fatty," and "Special Brew".

COMMUNITY EVENT / THEATRE

PLAY READING GROUP

MONDAY 29 SEPTEMBER

Unleash your inner thespian! Would you like to read a part in a play? Would you like to listen to a play being read aloud? All ages and backgrounds are welcome at our play reading group. Play titles are shared in advance. It's more fun than a Book Group with no homework to feel guilty about forgetting. This month we host a very special Play Reading Group. Lyme locals perform 'A Conversation that never happened' a play written and directed by Anastazie Toros. This script in hand performance explores themes of home, memory, and belonging. Inspired by real stories shared through personal objects, the piece transforms intimate experiences into a collective reflection on resilience, identity, and the meaning of connection. It's a free event, the bar will be open and you won't be called upon to do any more than sit back and enjoy!

Free event - but please book

Starts at 7:00 P.M.
